President's Notes

Happy New Year! 2025 was a busy year with a National Specialty in Arizona and ATFTC Specialties in Arizona, Oklahoma, California, Florida and New Jersey. Thank you Carrie Fletcher, Mary Bowlan, Denise Monette, and Chris Houchins for taking the lead on these shows and take a bow for their success. Our club, led by Laura Johnson, participated in the huge Meet The Breeds in New York City. A huge thank you to all the members who volunteered and helped at these events.

We also have folks who chaired the various committees and gave selflessly of their time and expertise – thank you Mandy Halsey (Health), Chris Bowker (Performance, Historian and Newsletter), Steve Thibodeaux (Webmaster), Lana Shore and Lisa Jumper (Sunshine Committee), Tabs Dvorak (Juniors Coordinator), Laura Johnson (Delegate), and people who jump in to help these wonderful people when needed.

And finally, thank you to our Board for all your work last year. Monthly meetings, impromptu discussions when things arose, helping at the shows, it's a lot of effort over the year. Special thank you to Carrie Fletcher and Tabs Dvorak for performing all the Secretary duties and Lea Ann Boles for the Treasurer work. That's many hours a month doing work behind the scenes.

It takes a lot of wonderful people to make a club successful and a huge thank you to every single one of you for everything you did to make our club have a successful year in 2025.

For 2026 we plan to repeat all the regional shows. Our National is August 21 in Topeka, Kansas. We will have a regional and supported entries that weekend as well. Tabs Dvorak is the Show Chair and Onofrio will be the superintendent. Tabs and Laura Johnson are working the awards for the show. Would one of you consider running the raffle for us there – coordinating the baskets and guiding the volunteers in selling the tickets? We are looking at holding a stud showcase that weekend and Pam Cox has volunteered to take charge of that.

Speaking of volunteers – we are looking for a Performance Chair for this year. The person keeps up with what our members are doing in agility, obedience, rally, FastCAT and the other cool events, tracks the invitees to the AKC invitationals and provides information to the Newsletter editor so our members active in these events get the visibility they deserve. Our dogs are wonderfully versatile and talented, and their achievements need to be highlighted!

We would also like one or more volunteers to help with the various awards the club offers. Please contact myself or any Board member if you want to be on the Performance, Awards or other committees.

Now a serious update. We were notified by the IRS this year, after we submitted our tax return, that we had lost our non-profit status. In 2016, it was discovered the years' 2013, 2014, and 2015 990 forms had not been submitted to the IRS and the club received a notice of revocation of the 501(c)7 status. From what we can determine after reviewing the minutes and records, that information was not passed along to the Board in place at that time or membership or the succeeding officers and board of the ATFTC.

Since then, each Treasurer had the tax accountant the club was using submit the forms but he did not inform us we were not exempt any longer. The Board and succeeding Boards were unaware of an issue until this year, when a notice was received from the IRS that the Club's status had been revoked in 2016 and the 990-EZ was not accepted. That left the club at risk of owing back taxes. After much research, including talking to two IRS agents and several tax people, the Board made the decision to reapply for tax exempt status and hire a tax expert to assist us. We have reapplied. We just received questions to respond to which include what club activities we do and how do we assist the public and non-members in those activities. We are crafting the response, and we will let you know if the IRS grants us the tax exempt status again.

We are looking forward to another busy year promoting and supporting our wonderful breed. If you have any ideas of things you'd like the club to consider adding to our agenda or being involved in just reach out to any officer or board member. Please consider being involved in one or more of our events or committees. As they say, it takes a village for us to do all we do and you are our village. Again, thank you to everyone for helping to make last year a successful one. You rock!

See you at the shows!

Susan Thibodeaux
President

Message from the Editor

Well, this is going out a little later than I thought it would, but then, it looks like we're going to have another month of cold weather, so I guess the Winter issue is not late at all!

Many thanks to Mandy Halsey and Lea Ann Boles for your great ads! Every time I receive ads for the newsletter, it makes my day a little brighter.

Thank you again to Lea Ann and to Steve Thibodeau who are always reliable in getting their reports to me.

Thank you to Susan T. for sending me all the Florida specialty results, her President Message, getting together the list of talented TFTs invited to the Agility Invitational, and the dozens of other things I call her about.

Thanks to Mary Bowlan for finding and sending me the final 2025 standings of our Barn Hunt competitors.

Last, but certainly not least, thank you Leigh-Anne Congdon for quickly responding to a request from me for her story about her "Pi". I am hoping to include more articles like this in some coming issues. More about that soon!

I have also included some old Gazette articles I came across while going through multiples of folders containing articles that caught my eye for the past 2 or 3 decades. One of them has 2 columns from other breed clubs I thought might be of interest to some. The smooth fox terrier article caught my attention because of the first sentence in the second-to-last paragraph—that also applies to newsletter editors too! At least I will know you are actually reading the newsletter! In the Advertising Game article, the third paragraph in Mr. Bradley's section was interesting to me.... something to think about!

Pi: The Little Dog Who Taught Me to Run Faster

My agility journey began with a mixed-breed toy dog whose greatest joy in life was simply making me happy. He never dashed ahead on course; instead, he trotted faithfully at my side, following every cue. My second agility dog, another mixed breed, was the opposite—fast, wild, and far beyond my novice handling skills. After those two extremes, I decided it was time to look for a small dog I could truly partner with. That search led me to a Toy Fox Terrier named Pi.

And if I thought I would be the one setting the pace, I was in for quite a surprise.

From the moment Pi saw his first jump, he revealed himself as a tiny speed demon with a huge love for agility. That love of motion wasn't limited to agility—Pi also blasted his way to his Fast CAT title and picked up a couple trick titles along the way, proving he's as quick-thinking as he is quick-footed.

At one of our earliest agility workshops, the instructor pulled me aside and said, "That dog could be a national champion..." She didn't finish the sentence, but I certainly did: "...but YOU need a lot of work!" So I rose to the challenge. Over the next few years, I worked hard to become the handler Pi deserved. Together we climbed through Novice, Open, Excellent, and eventually into Masters. This past December, we celebrated a milestone I once only dreamed of—Pi's Masters Agility Championship.

The road wasn't always smooth. At a trial in the fall of 2024, Pi was startled by a large dog and suddenly became anxious at competitions. It broke my heart to see my once-fearless little athlete hesitate at the start line. With patience, time, and a lot of quiet confidence-building, we worked through it. Our efforts paid off when Pi qualified for the 2025 National Agility Championship in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The atmosphere there was overwhelming for a small dog, but Pi dug deep, trusted me, and delivered a clean Standard run. I couldn't have been prouder.

Britney Imhof, the instructor who saw Pi's potential early on and is now our coach, with me and Pi the day we earned Pi's MACH.

This past year, something clicked for us. Our teamwork sharpened, our confidence grew, and Pi rediscovered the joy that first made him sparkle on course. Earning his MACH in December felt like the perfect culmination of everything we've learned together.

Pi is so much more than my agility partner. He's my hiking buddy, my fetch fanatic, my couch cuddler, and my daily reminder that the best things really do come in small, fast packages. I couldn't have asked for a more extraordinary teammate—or a more extraordinary Toy Fox Terrier.

Shih Tzu

*REVERSE SNEEZING

One topic that crops up frequently in conversations with novice Shih Tzu owners is reverse sneezing, which is fairly common in Shih Tzu and other short-faced breeds.

The first time you experience an episode, it can be very frightening. The dog begins honking loudly, or snorting and gagging, and appears to be choking or suffering from an asthma attack. In fact, the dog is making these noises because he is violently pulling air in through his nose—the reverse of what takes place with a sneeze.

No one is quite sure what causes reverse sneezing, although it is probably due to a temporary spasm of the throat muscles, possibly complicated by an accumulation of mucus or a slightly elongated soft palate. Some people believe that overweight and excitement can aggravate reverse sneezing.

Reverse sneezing causes no ill effects, apart from distress to the owner. The dog behaves perfectly normally before and after an episode. Although a bout of reverse sneezing will eventually end with or without your intervention, you may be able to cut it short by placing your finger over your dog's nostrils, forcing him to breathe through his mouth.

If your dog often experiences episodes of reverse sneezing, or if episodes occur with increasing frequency and the dog is failing to thrive, you may want to have him checked by your veterinarian. In rare cases, similar symptoms can be caused by more serious breathing problems such as stenotic nares (narrowed or "pinched" nostrils) or a collapsing trachea (which involve the collapse of normally rigid nasal or tracheal cartilage), or by infected or enlarged tonsils.

Generally, however, reverse sneezing is as innocuous as the "puppy snuffles" found in many Shih Tzu during the teething phase.

*WHAT IS LINEBREEDING?

We often hear people talking about linebreeding. First, however, we have to ask, what exactly is linebreeding?

Some people try to "breed on a specific line." You have to define line before you can do that. How many generations of breeding constitute "a line"? Does it have to include specific dogs or have a specific kennel name? And what about dogs who carry that kennel name but are not closely related? If someone buys a dog unnamed, he can put his kennel name on it—or if they breed two unrelated dogs, they can put their kennel name on the pups. Then whose line is it? In some instances we may have an outcross breeding of two well-established lines: Whose line is it? Or what about a dog who carries a specific kennel name for three generations or so, but prior to that, all the stock came from another line?

To breed on a line you have to first define what that line is, and (hopefully) what it is about that line that you want to incorporate in your breeding plan.

In a previous column, I mentioned a couple of ways people organize their breeding programs. Some people breed two animals they like the look of. Others study pedigrees and go by that. I prefer to incorporate both aspects, breeding both to the pedigree and the dogs, in the attempt to balance both things.

Evaluating dogs just takes practice and hopefully the assistance of an experienced person to help you.

Evaluating a pedigree requires research. You need to find as much information as possible about all the animals mentioned in the pedigree for a minimum of three generations, though four or five is even better. Get more than one or two opinions about each dog. No animal is perfect, so you need to find the strengths as well as the weaknesses of each dog mentioned. I also try to find as much information as possible about the siblings of the animals in the pedigree. Genetically, both could—although they don't necessarily—carry the same traits. This makes breeding animals a little like gambling. You do the research and hope to produce the best you can—sound dogs with good temperaments and no genetic problems. —Vicki Bratton,

Smooth Fox Terriers

REFLECTIONS OF A BREED COLUMNIST

In 1988 when I started my stint as breed columnist, I had lots to say about lots of things. Writing was excellent therapy for relieving frustrations that had built up over the years in areas such as dog shows, judging, breeders, the AKC and dog clubs.

Anyone who has been in the sport for a long time has had the same feelings. Columns came easily; often I had more to say than space permitted. I suppose most new columnists experience the same phenomenon.

Reader feedback keeps most columnists motivated. Some columns created considerable reaction, especially the one in which I highlighted abuse of Smooth Fox Terriers by people who initially appeared to be perfect pet owners. I received at least a dozen letters on that one, including offers to help combat animal neglect and abuse.

It really makes me sad when I reflect on that article. Animal abuse and neglect should be covered by every breed columnist so breeders know the dangers and risks of placing dogs in unknown or unverified settings.

A favorite topic of a few years ago was the structure and balance of the Smooth Fox. I produced several drawings showing my interpretation of the proper angles and how they contributed to movement and balance. I received lots of positive feedback, even from people in other breeds. I still use the same mental images and principles to assess various breeds of dogs.

I have frequently addressed type and balance, since they are really the cornerstone of any breed. Some writers find type to be an elusive subject, but I always felt comfortable discussing it. The basic principle I apply is that type can be simply defined as typical of the dog described in the standard.

Recently I have mellowed considerably. I discussed philosophical topics such as establishing and maintaining your own line, mental imaging of the perfect dog and striving for that image, extremes versus moderation, and consistency in breeding. These columns received plenty of positive interaction from readers, especially those who were relatively new to their particular breed.

A subject that always brought a flurry of letters from newcomers was the national at Montgomery and the experiences associated with the weekend. Based on reactions to these articles, I suggest each breed club prepare an information packet listing all activities associated with its national. It would be well received by fanciers in every breed.

As I said earlier, feedback keeps a columnist going. Without it, I would have been out of here a long time ago. What has been most disappointing is the lack of response from those I consider to be my peers and avid competitors in our breed. They should be my best source of feedback, but for the most part they have chosen to remain silent. I strongly encourage everyone reading this article, especially those who are considered to be stalwarts in a breed, to consider the positive impact they could have on their breed columnist if they occasionally take time to interact on the subject or content of an article.

This might be my last column. I have been writing for six years and it might be time for another point of view. I wrote this article to provide some insight into the life and times of a columnist and to pass on a few tips on how to make the job of breed columnist more productive and fulfilling. — Bill Dossett, 1533 East Gaffney Road, New River, AZ 85027 ■

Wire Fox Terriers

Montgomery is well past, but I must congratulate our smooth-coated partners on making such a magnificent showing. The Smooth B.B. and the identical brace (even to in-sync tail wagging!) were fine specimens and their owners and breeders should feel quite accomplished and proud. I applaud judge and American Fox Terrier Club president Bill Potter for having the intestinal fortitude to go with a class dog at the prestigious specialty, not an easy place to step out of the expected.

The Advertising Game

*Two top experienced judges ponder
the effect
advertising
dog show wins has had on our sport.*

EDITED BY JOSH ADAMS

As the late judge Peggy Adamson noted in this column last year, "The Doberman Quarterly, conceived in the 1960s, added a new dimension to the sport when it sent complimentary issues to all judges. This ... caused an onslaught of advertising, was widely copied and had a startling effect on dog shows." Today, advertising wins in magazines and newspapers is commonplace, but has it really affected the sport?

We asked two top judges exactly what effect, if any, advertising has had on judging and the sport. Thomas H. Bradley 3d. has been involved in dogs for more than 40 years and judges all sporting breeds and Best in Show.

Thomas H. Bradley 3d.

The AKC Museum of the Dog's annual benefit last February included a visit to the musical "Chicago." The lyrics Fred Ebb wrote to the song "Razzle Dazzle" can be applied to much of today's dog show advertising: "What if your hinges all are rusting? What if, in fact, you're just disgusting? Razzle dazzle 'em and they'll never catch wise! ... Long as you keep 'em way off balance, how can they spot you got no talents? Razzle dazzle 'em and they'll make you a star!"

When I started in the sport of purebred dogs, advertising mostly meant handing out stud dog cards and putting up PUPPIES FOR SALE signs. Fanciers would occasionally take out a page in Popular Dogs or Kennel Review to announce a spectacular group win or Best in Show, and they'd place ads in their quarterly or semiannual breed magazines. These ads were directed at fellow breeders.

It's interesting for me to note that even in my latest issue of Terrier Type, almost every ad lists the sire and dam of the dog in the photograph. Obviously these ads, as in the days of yore, are aimed at fellow breeders. These ads are all geared toward breeder education.

The ads in today's all-breed magazines, however, rarely list the name of the sire and dam, only the latest wins. One must assume, therefore, that these ads are for the edification of judges only. We are bombarded weekly and monthly by true Madison Avenue, toothpaste-type expensive advertising hype all to promote "a strong four-point major reserve!" Wait a minute! Has something changed? Isn't reserve, be it a four-point major or not, still just best of losers?

There is an adage that goes something like this: "The more things change, the more they remain the same." The best response I know to the question of whether advertising has affected our sport came from my friend William Kendrick, who 30 years ago tackled the same topic in his 1967 address to the Dog Fanciers Luncheon following Westminster. (Forgive me, Mr. K., for some poetic license.)

Here's the gist of what he said: It has been charged, and I think with some justification, that the underlying purpose of promotional advertising and a rating system is to influence judges. Do they influence some insecure judges? Unhappily, I think so. But what judge worthy of their license would care three hoots where an entry before them stood in the ratings? What counts, or should count, is the dog as it appears then and there, with nary a thought to advertising.

What counts to judge Thomas H. Bradley 3d., here evaluating Pointers, is the dog as it appears then and there, with nary a thought to advertising.
